Stocks were depastured within what are called the nineteen counties, being the extent of territory first settled by the Government as the colony of New South Wales. Sections of land consisting of 640 acres were leased at a small rental to the stock-holders, and the revenue thus derived, was placed to the credit of the territorial fund. The rent paid for these sections, was, at the first, only £1 per annum, but it was soon raised to £5.

They contended that their occupation ought to be in some degree permanent. That the squatter ought not to be ousted from a station to the ruin of his property, because some person chose to purchase from the Crown the choice bit of land, which perhaps gave all the pastoral value which surrounded it. They urged, if it was the intention of purchasing land was put up for sale, the purchasing squatter should have the option of buying it at the upset price; and they demanded, that if their country, and that they form, moreover, to such an enormous, proportionate extent as we have described, the permanent and fixed capital of the country, it is difficult to rate their importance too highly, and it is certainly somewhat dangerous to interfere with interests so

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY

IN CHAMBERS.

BEFORE SIR ALFRED STEPHEN, C.J.
THE FOLLOWING DECISION IN CHAMBERS, Honor the Chief Justice, is published as may be useful, for future reference, is this.

I have no doubt about allowing Guilty generally; although the de-might, if he pleased, (and perhaps of strictness) to confine the Plea to such parts, as he really intends to dispute been by the Court, I am inclined to

2. In addition to the denial of the Truwhich is the only natural effect of the the defendant wants to show under matter; i.e. that the plaintiff has obtain his release from custody, and all which in fact he originally claim-way of set off, in a suit in the Small Court. But this the defendant cannot be allowed to add the words "I do not," viz. Nos. 15, 16, 17, &c., in my opinion that the defendant is entitled the circumstances of this case, to ad-words; and thereby, without explaining what the facts are, to set up the cheque drawn by the effect repudienactment in s. 10, I could decide wise.

3. As to "Leave and License," "Accord and Satisfaction," I conceiv-that it would be sufficient to say, I am, in fact, satisfied, that (whether succeeded in proving it or not) the defence, or means to rely on one, as of these pleas.

4. It may seem much, as to the pro-allowing "Libertum Tenementum" pleaded—in conjunction, that is to the proposed plea denying the Cloze to plaintiff's close. And I by no means think that the defendant is entitled to decide that on principle both these pleas be allowed. On the contrary, But should be, that, as the practice of allowing so long prevailed in the Cheques, it is now disallowed, and that the agreement, among the Judges generally, is in consequence, that the defective effect. On a similar ground I will the two pleas here. That is to say, I now disallow the Plea of Libertum Ten-tium, in consequence, that the de-ownership of the Close, by the de-yet there has been no settle-in this Court, to disallow them.

But I am no doubt above all things to be in opinion, that the two should in future be allowed. If true, as observed in the case cited, they are not identical—because, under the defendant may mean to deny the bare possession, and that only—whereas, under the other, he may intend to deny the bare possession, but to deny such a possession as is against himself. But this only pro-"Libertum Tenementum" will not put the question of sole possession. The however is inadmissible; that the de-Close being the property of the p-(which is now settled to be the true of the plea called "not possessed," in both cases, ten, an property, is to say, that the defendant has actual possession; and, when that is will enable the defendant to say of defence, "your possession, though me for agent or stranger, is not good
me for agent or stranger, is not good right to the possession." And, since is clearly so, I do not see why (except practice has been hitherto to allow both the Liberties Tenementum and below, where "Not the plaintiff's Cloze allowed."

6. In this case, then, all the pleas for are allowed. The defendant requires to be discharged from custody; proceedings, in the meantime, are stay-

CHEQUE.—On Thursday evening, 1st inst., a young man named James Hodge, of the Sydney police, apprehended a man named Andrew Stone, at Tighe's house, South Head road, for having Government domain, about midday, last week, taken a cheque made by them being under 11 years of age. His custody he was requested by Mr. J. liquidate his score, amounting to 5s.; he had no money about him, but, on his own account, he went to Mr. J.
Baker, on the Union Bank, for £7 18s.
Tighe excused himself from giving the cheque unless he first saw Mr. J.
Stone then took possession of the cheque and returned home, where he showed its genuineness. Subsequent inquiries of the suspicion, and yesterday Stone with the uttering. Mr. Tighe depos-prisoner having offered the cheque and the sum of £7 18s. to Mr. J. gave evidence that he did not make the nor did he keep an account at the Bank. On this charge he was commit-trial at the Central Criminal Court on Friday next, and the fatal taken in reference to the charges on was taken into custody, and the following postponed until this morning.

STRAYED MONEY. On Wednesday last, a little boy, named John Sussex-street, went knocking for a shoe leaving the shop in charge of her son about seven years of age. Soon afreturn she found the boy gone to the cheque, when she missed the purse con-one £1 note, and 23s. in silver; on quarry she learned that the only per-had been in the shop during her absence, was a little boy named John about ten years of age.

Callaghan made inquiries of her she denied having any money at all.
quently, Mrs. C. resumed her cross-examination, and asked whether the boy (a sock), containing £1 2s., adding that Callaghan's son gave it to her to take for him. As Mrs. Callaghan's son had an opportunity since Mrs. C. last saw him, she said that she thought he exchanged the girl into custody. She was brought before the Bench, who made for her discharge, on recognizances because of her good behaviour for six months.

COMMITTEES. An investigation terday held at the Gaol, Darlinghurst, Dowling, in the matter of George W.
William Scott, charged with having committed a robbery at the residence of Parramatta-street, butcher, and E.
Alger, charged as accessory to the roa saddle from Mr. Pollard's Office, re-her-Herd's few days since. Wane was committed to the County Jail, and mitted for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

STEALING WEARING APPAREL.—Chen-of China, was yesterday committed to trial at the Quarter Sessions, for stealing wearing apparel, of the value of £10, belonging to countryman of his Tan Ki, in the service of Mr. Mort.
Richards, Mr. Mort's gardener, near the residence of Mr. Mort, who was as belonging to Tan Ki, gave him 5s.
into custody.

MAGISTERIAL ENQUIRY.—Y

the coroner from Sydney, an inquiry was made by the Water Police Magistrate at the Academy, and the following view of the body of Mary O'Brien, lying dead in Delaney's lane. The evidence disclosed a melancholy case of depravity. It seems that deceased was an inveterate drunkard, and a peevish, quarrelsome, and vindictive person, where she lived, and whose drunken brawls are a disgrace to the city authorities. One witness stated that on Tuesday morning last, he saw her sitting down, her eyes blackened, and she quite delirious, apparently from drink. She did not see her again alive; but next morning heard she was dead, and he left her lying by herself. Both this witness and another, and another, who saw nobody, they saw a bruise on the temple, which (knowing her drunken habits) they attributed to a fall; they knew of no quarrel with any person, and any other person. Mr. Burton Harper, who was the victor of the body, and that there were several bruises about the eyes; and that upon examining under a mass of clotted blood on the right temple, he saw the elevation of the scalp, which, however, from the state of the body, he thought might possibly have been produced from deceased having fallen when drunk; there was no fracture, so far as he could ascertain, by external manipulation; and from the history of the case, and the appearances presented, he (Mr. H.) was of opinion that death was not the result of violence, but of intemperate habits. This view of the Police Magistrate entered his finding, that deceased died of the effects of drinking continued and excessive intemperance.

STEALING FROM A DWELLING.—On Thursday evening four £1 notes, two £2 notes, one £5 note, two £10 notes, two pines, and several other trinkets, were stolen from the residence of Mr. Ellic, Charles-street, Woolloomoo-loo.

OUTRAGEOUS CONDUCT.—On Thursday afternoon, a young man, calling himself an American Naval Officer (which we hope is not to be had), while in a state of partial intoxication, in a most outrageous manner at the Australian Club. He endeavoured to force his way in, and when refused, he was a private establishment; he then produced a revolver, and when he presented at some gentlemen who were in the verandah, declaring with much blasphemy that there was a bill each of £100, and that he was willing to accept his challenge, he was, to his considerable abuse, went away. An affidavit of the presentation of the pistol was made yesterday at the Police Office, and a warrant issued for the apprehension of the offender.

RESULT OF THE LAND AND BANK STOCK.—Messrs. Purkis and Lambert sold yesterday, at their Rooms, an allotment of land, adjoining the Museum Hotel, on the city side, having 45 feet 10 inches frontage to William-street, £6 per acre, and a share of 100 in the Union Bank of Australia, £25 paid up, for £39 10s. each, being at a premium of 68 per cent., £395; total, £458.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

FORMATION OF CYCLONES.
To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.
GENTLEMEN,—Having on many occasions published in your columns illustrations of the theories in cyclones, with accounts of such theories in the journals of the day, I thought it right in the subject, as to welcome the contribution of Mr. Dobson, which appears in your journal of this date. My own studies in this branch of science to mention, that the views adopted by Mr. Dobson are not altogether new or original. From this point the quantity of this gold was originally from Port Phillip. The local gold from California some gold was received. The gold was sold at 100 s. per ounce, my public sale this morning, and is apparently the best quality of gold yet received.

Illustration of the faith of our diggers in the fields now under water, it is within my power to state that the water is so high that the winter, for the purpose of securing the fields should subside. The next morning the water subsided to show what result the production of gold. I annex my usual list of the gold.

ABD-EL-KADER'S ACCOUNT OF THE ARAB HORSE WITH HIS NOTICE

OF THE TRIBES OF ALGERIA, &c.

Glorious to the one God, his reign alone is eternal.

GRANDIERE to him, who, in his excellent qualities, equals all the men of his time, who seeks only what is good, whose heart is pure, and whose mind is rich; he has been chosen by the illustrious Lord General Daumas—for your friend Sid-el-Hadj Abd-el Kader, son of Mahdi-Eddin.

B. Hold the reply to your inquiries.

1. How many animals does the Arab horse travel without repose or injury?

Know that a horse, sound in all his limbs, fed on barley, which his belly demands, can do whatever his rider wishes him to do. With reason the Arabs say—

A let on Arab-eyes a barley and straw.

But, without abusing the horse, you can make him travel sixteen parangs (about three miles every day); that is the distance between two camps, where the soldier must find his Mina. A horse making this journey every day and fed on barley to the utmost of his appetite, can continue unfatigued for three or four months on the road without resting one single day.

2. What distance can the horse traverse in a day?

I cannot tell you with precision; but that distance ought to approach 50 parangs—from a camp to another, on the march. We have seen a vast number of horses do the journey in one day. However, the horse which has accomplished that distance must be spared next day, and would not be able to do it at all again without a twenty-four hours interval.

3. What examples are there of the abstemiousness of the Arab horse, and what proofs of his power to resist hunger and thirst?

Know, that the Arabs, who are established at the mouth of the Melouia, used make razzia in the Djebel-Arnour, following the road of the Sahara, pressing our horses to the gallop for five or six days, and entering one beach after the other, attacking and back in twenty or twenty-five days at the most. During this interval our horses had no barley to eat, except what they could get from the hands of their riders; that is, about eight ordinary meals. Our horses found no straw, but only some alfa or chith, or, in spring, a little grass.

In such expeditions, on return home, we performed the journey on horseback, the day of our arrival, and struck the dust with some of our horses. Many which could not exhibit this exercise, were yet in a condition to perform it, though they had not been allowed to remain without drinking for one or two days. Once they had nothing to drink for three. The horses of the Sahara do much more than this. They remain for about three weeks without drinking, and they know very well how to keep themselves from getting thirsty. They know not straw, except on the day when they come to purchase grains in the Tell, and they eat for the most part only alfa, chith, and occasionally moutis.

The Arabs say—

*Alfa makes the horse to travel—
Chith makes him fight—
Moutis keeps him from being thirsty.*

Certain years pass without the horses of the Sahara having a grain of barley to eat during the whole year, when the tribes have not received in the Tell. Sometimes, then, they give them water to their horses; this nourishment restores them; they are then marched out, and enter on expedition.

4. Why, as the French do not ride their horses until after they have passed the age of maturity, do the Arabs mount their extremely young?

Know that the Arabs say that horses and man can be well taught only in the tenderest age. This is their proverb on the subject:—

"The lessons of infancy are graven on stone."

"The lessons of ripier years disappear like the nests of birds."

They also say, "The young branch also recovers its posture without much difficulty, but the thick wood never recovers from a warp."

In the very first year the Arabs begin to instruct the young horse to go with the rascas, a kind of rattle, which they hold in his snaffle, beginning to break and bridle him, and, as he becomes tuni, that is, when he enters his second year, they ride him one mile, then two, then a parang; and when he has completed his third year, they ride him with anger afraid of fatiguing him. When he has entered tora telata, that is, when he enters his third year, they cease to ride him; they fasten him, over him with a good djalek (cloth), and he is called hama. On this head they say, "In his first year, tie him for fear of accident. In the second year, ride him till his back curves. In the third year, tie him again, and if he has become tame what you wish, sell him."

If a horse is ridden in his third year, it is certain that he will never be good for anything but speed, which he does not require to learn—it is his natural quality. The Arabs express the idea thus—"El doudi shay, el doudi shay," which signifies, "He is good, he is good, he is blood." The noble horse never needs to learn swiftness.

What tribes of Algeria are the most renowned for their horses?

Kabils, the tribes westward of the Sahara are those of the Hamyan, without exception. They possess none but excellent horses, because they never employ them either for tillage or with warlike purposes, but solely for expedition and war.

Next to the Kabils, come the Beni-hager, hungry, thirsty, and fatigued. Next to the horses of the Hamyan, come those of the Arbas and Ouled-Niyel.

In the Tell the best horses for nobleness and beauty are those of the Beni-Maz, and among those of the people of the Chelif, especially those of the Ouled-Sidi Ben Abd Allah (Sidi el Aaridja near the Miziad) and again those of the Ouled Sidi Hassan, a fraction of the Ouled-Sidi Ben Ali, who inhabit the mountain of Mascara. The swiftest on the race course (dine alone in shape) are those of the tribe of Flats, of the Ould Sheriff, and of the Beni-Bachekred. The best for a march over strong ground without being lost, best bred, those of the Assasena tribe in Yakoubia. A saying is attributed to Moulay Ismail, the celebrated Sultan of Morocco—"Let my steed be reared in Maz and watered in the Biz."

Maz is a place in the country of the Assasena, and the Biz is the stream known by the name of Foufet, which flows in their territory, and which is so named, because it is renowned for the same qualities. Sidi Ahmed Ben Yassouf has said, with reference to that tribe, "Long tresses and flowing manes will be as a monument you to the day of resurrection," punningly their women and their horses.

My father (God have him in his mercy!) was wont to say, "No more blessing is there in the world than that of the Arab who leads his horses into beasts of burthen and of tillage. Did not God make the horse for the charge and the race, the ox for tillage, and the camel for carrying loads? There is no gain in amending what God made."

9. What are our precepts for the nurture and nourishment of our horses?

Know that the owner of a horse gives him food for strength, by diminishing his ration by small quantities, thus supplying him with a little as soon as the animal leaves any, and finally maintaining the allowance at that measure.

At the most moment for giving barley to the evening. Except on the road, there is nothing to be gained by giving any in the morning.—The saying on this head is, "The barley of the morning is found on the dunghill; the barley of the evening is found on the manger."

The best manner of giving the barley is to give it to the horse addled and girthed, at the best moment of watering him is to water him while tied. They say, "Water with the apple of the eye, with the apple."

The Arabs, above all, prefer a horse that esteems little, provided he be not weakened in constitution. He is, they say, "A treasure beyond price, a treasure which diminishes his value as he grows thin; to give it to him in the evening makes him grow fat; and to give it to him in the middle of the day keep him in his condition."

(Continued.) The great heats, which last 60 days (sometimes), the Arabs water their horse only once in two days; and they are aware that this practice has the best effects, in summer.

4. That the shares be immediately opened and the Meeting invited to take shares. (Upwards of 200 shares were subscribed for the room.)

PROSPECTUS.

It is proposed,

1. That a Paddle-boat Steamer, of between 110 and 120 tons, suited to the trade of the District, be purchased, the head quarters of chief management to be in Wollongong.
2. That until after the 1st of October, no but residents, or those having property in the District, shall be allowed to take shares; or to hold more than fifty, after which time the limit of fifty may be increased, and the privilege to hold shares be extended to non-residents.

6. A deposit of £1 per share, to be paid on the shares being allotted, and the balance (or such portions of it) as may be required when called for by the Directors, of which notice not less than fourteen days' notice will be given.
7. That six clear days' notice of intention to transfer, to whom, the number of the receipt or scrip, and the number of shares to be transferred, be given by the Shareholder.
8. A receipt, stating the number of Shares amount paid, and payable, will be issued to each Shareholder, signed by the Chairman, when the Shares shall have been allotted.
9. A scrip will be issued for each share, when the full amount shall have been paid.
10. That the Capital and all other money of the Company be lodged in the Bank of the Company.
11. That no payments shall be made without the vote of the Provisional Committee or the Directors; each order for payment to be signed by the Provisional Committee, or the Directors, as the case may be.

14. That when the Provisional Committee shall have allotted the Shares, a Meeting of Shareholders shall be convened to elect Directors.
15. That the Directors shall consist of seven Shareholders, who shall, at the time of election and during office, be residents in the District, and be the possessors of not less than ten Shares, and that two (2) will be the Chairman be a quorum.
16. A Charter of Incorporation, to limit the liability of Shareholders to the amount of their respective Shares, will be applied for.

Circumstances but too well known, seriously affecting the interests of the Shippers and of the District, have rendered it essential to those interests, that a Steamer be provided for the District, to obviate the necessity of sending their produce to Sydney.

Irrespective of the circumstances alluded to it is both reasonable and legitimate that those by whom a Steamer is principally supported should return to themselves the profits created by their labor, for their skill, and their capital.

The motive for raising the capital in 1400 Shares, is, that the shippers of every rank, class, and degree, and all who have an interest in the shipping of the District, may reap the legitimate portion of the profits, which the labour and enterprise so largely produce, and that there may be no MONOPOLY.

The advantage of having the management of the Steamer in the hands of the shippers or passengers shall have one local benefit, and that is, some certainty of being attended to, and that there shall be a well regulated system of management, and a scale of charges, equitable to the shipper and profitable to the Shareholder.

Experience has proved that there is no safe investment, especially as the profits arising from the freights and general traffic will be the property of, and principally expended in the district.

If the will of each be but equal to liability, there will be no difficulty whatever in procuring a steamer.

What you do, do quickly; and when done let it be well done.

PATENT WROUGHT NAILS.

The late Mr. Joseph Ewbank's Patent Nails.

The Patent Wrought Nails, made at the Works, Newport, Monmouthshire, England, hereby caution buyers carefully to examine the initials before purchasing, as spurious hand-made imitations are now being introduced into the Australian Colonies, and the market, and sold, so as to deceive the wary.

The manufacturers are fully convinced that these imitations will ultimately be recognized by every consumer, but they are nevertheless due to the dealers and to themselves, to be in the trade in general aware of the deception.

and body, I am sustained alone by the hope that the annals of the Insolvent Court will be filled with the names of the poor.

The date of this memorial is June 28th, 1898. High testimonials are appended to it by Lord Palmerston, Aberdeen, Elmhurst, Harrowby, Connaught, Ripon, Sir John Lubbock, Sir St. John Lubbock, and Lord John Russell. It did not produce any effect; the debts and the harrasing remained; the pioneer of the Overland Route died shortly afterwards; we cannot say of a brother, but of a friend, who had been previously shattered by his labours. Yet it is sadly like this. He might have lived a years longer. He was only forty-seven, and a pension awarded him by the India House would have enabled him to live on. A pension from Government had been previously bestowed, so that he only lived to taste the first quarter.

At his death both pensions died with him; his widow being left to starve. The Government had no other charity for him.

pension of fifty pounds; and the Government naively stating, as if in excuse for the ex-vagance, that it was in consequence of her "eminant services" performed by her late husband, awarded her a pension of £20 per annum. This twenty-five poor creatures having been the subject of many comments from the press, both of loud indignation against the cutting ridicule, the Government made the grant, with the statement—"In consideration of the services rendered by Mrs. Waghorn," a further sum was awarded—£15 fifteen pounds more! This is the fact, and these are the terms of the grant. What she reads like as an act of clemency towards a woman who has been guilty of such crimes, and so very wicked, you know; but as you are in terme de destitution, here are a few pounds more than the above-mentioned petitioners' memorials, and struggles for life and honor were going on, great for the poor women, who were rushing with bags of money to pour out at the feet of Mr. Hudson, M.P., for reward for his having made the largest fortune in the shortest time ever known.—And thus, before the eyes of the nation, the old man, the young wife, and the children, all three, were

Mr. Shiel, the Secretary of the Mint, was approved by the Lords of the Treasury in February. Measures have since been taken to extend that reform. The contracts with the molten-refiner terminated on the 30th of April. A peculiar distinction between the check and restorative branches is abolished. All persons employed in the Mint are to be paid by the orders of the Master. All fees heretofore will be paid to the public account. Before the contract with the moneyers expired, contracts were offered for the execution of work on such terms as the best price should be obtained, on which was accepted. In consequence a plan was prepared for the execution of coinage under the employment of Government. This plan came into operation on the 2d of August, 1841. The moneyers are to be paid on account, on giving up all private business.
